WASHINGTON.

YESTERDAY'S PROCEEDINGS OF THE PRACES SET A CONGESS.

Proceedings in the Senate and House Railway and Steamship Mail Service. Etc. HOUSE.

WASHINGTON, May 7 .- The House met at 10:30 and proceeded to the consideration of the post office appropriation bill. Connor, of Illinois, opposed the amendment adopted by the Committee of the Whole, yesterday, authorizing the Postmaster General to remit in favor of the Colonies of New Zealand and New South Wales, so much of the cost of overland transportation of Australian closed mails as he may deem just. This amendment would enable the Postmaster General to exercise disretion in letting the mails for England pass through the United States without any charge against the government of reat Britain.

The House then proceeded to vote pon the amendments. The first amendeut on which a separate vote was denanded was that authorizing the Postmaster General to use $350,000 of $9,4~0,-000 appropr ated for railway mail service to obtain and secure from railways necessary and special facilities for posal service. The amendment was adopted, yeas 110, nays 66. The next amendment was that known as the "money" amendment which is as follows: All star routes shall be relet after thirty days advertisement, as now provided by law, on the 1st of October, 1880, on which pay for expedition of schedules ordered during the fiscal ears of 79 and '80 shall exceed fifty per cent. of the contract price before such expedition, provided that this proviso should not prevail when the present contractor desires to continue the contract as reduced. Adopted, 118 to 57. This amendment now takes the place of the proviso originally reported by the appropriation committee to the Star service clause of the bill. Other amendments were then agreed to but fore the vote could be taken on the ill the legislative session of Thursday sed and at 12 o'clock the session of Friday commenced.

After reading of the journal of Thurs-lay had been concluded—the Postoffice Appropriation bill was passed as amen-

SENATE.

Hoar stated that he had intended to all up this morning the resolution sub ed by him yesterday, directing the committee on the judiciary to report a bill to reimburse out of the Geneva award all those who lost ships by the depredations of Confederate cruisers during the rebellion, but he would not ppose the consideration of the conferce report on the Indian appropriation bill, which was thereupon taken up on motion of Beck. Edmunds opposed the adoption of the report, the House having failed to convince the Senate that the Indian Commission n order to secure the passage of the apropriation bil', if at all, to withhold money necessary to pay the expenses of the Commission. This was practically ation. This was not a politi juestion and he urged the Senate to retrain from consenting to the introduc-tion of such a practice to conferences between the douses. Beck said the conference committee had thought it best to remove this ground of difference and secure the passage of the bill nasmuch as sundry civil and other appropriation bills would soon follow on which appropriation for the commission could be made if thought best.

Maryland for Blaine.

FREDERICK, Md., May 7 .- At 11:30 last night the committee on credentials and permanent organizations were ready to report and the convention reassembled. A temporary or ganization was made permanent. A resolution that in obedience to an overwhelming sentiment of the Republicans of the State in favor of Hon. James G. Alarming Strikes in England. LONDON, May 7 .- A dispatch from Paris says strikes in the cotton spinning districts are assuming alarming proportions. Sixty factories have been closed at Rouhaix, by which 15,000 persons were thrown out of employment. Five thousand operatives struck at Taurcaing. There is also a strike at Rouen and many silk factories have closed. Men demand higher wages and less hours.

A Terrible fragedy.

ELMIRA, N. Y., May 4-A terrible tradgedy occured at Penn Yan this morning. Mrs. George Woodruff, during the temporary absence of her hus-band from home, about 6 o'clock took her two sleeping children from bed (one aged six and the other one year), and, going to a cistern. drowned both of them. Her husband soon returning and hunting for them, found them in the cistern. The mother was standing up with the infant in her arms, it be ing dead. The other was in the water, which was about the woman's waist.
All three were immediately taken out, but efforts to resuscitate the children were useless. Before finding them Mr. Woodruff discovered a note addressed "Dear George,—You will find the children in the eistern, and before you see me I shall be in eternity. I cannot live another day in such agony,"

She had previously informed her husband that on one or two occasions she had made up her mind to kill the children and herself, but could not bring herself to do it. Mrs. Woodruff was probably insane, owing to the inability of the family to pay their debts, they being in poor circumstances.

Legislative Bill Completed.

WASHINGTON, May 7.- The Sub-Committee of the Appropriations Com mittee have completed the Legislative bill and will report it to the full Com-mittee Monday. It appropriates $16,-211,286 and is considered quite liberal though considerably under the estimate. It is thought that the Committee will agree upon the bill and report it to the House on Tuesday. This leaves but two Appropriation bills to be per-fected, the sundry civil and general deficiency bills, both of which are well in hand and may be in shape to report to the House within the next ten days.

An Interview With Col. Scott.

The New York Tribune having stated editorially that the Texas Pacific railroad was the mistake of Col. Thos. A. Scott's life, that gentleman has respon-ded as follows through a Tribune inter-

"The Texas Pacific is to-day one of "The Texas Pacific is to-day one of the best roads in the country, with a great future. The floating debt which it was necessary to raise to build it has all been paid off. The equipment debt which is a very small one of $29,000 a mile, is the only debt it has, and it is secured by land grants. The Texas Pacific is perfectly able to take care of itself. We are building 400 miles of El Paso, as you know. After that it remains to be seen what will be done. In a year it will tap New Orleans so as to have a port on the gulf as well as the a year it will tap New Orleans so as to have a port on the gulf as well as the Atlantic seaboard. It is and will be a greatroad. When I was before Congress for a subsidy Mr. Reid's paper opposed me. That was all right. I am very glad we did not get it. We are better for having had to rely on our own resources. We applied for aid because we thought that was an economic own resources. We applied for aid be-cause we thought that was an economi-cal way to build a road. I don't think so now. The government should not grant aid to any road. It is a mistake.' In regard to the proposition to place the railroads under government con-trol Col. Scott said: "It would be the greatest mistake possible both for the railroads and the government. The government could not run them. There government could not run them. There are too many now. They must turn to and develop themselves. They are to-day just beginning to fulfill the promises made in 1873, especially in the West. The West must develop, and the increased production, which means increased business, must come last. Rev. Dr. Hoge Falls Among Thieve in a Far-Off Country.

Richmond Dispatch. A letter received in Richmond yesterday, and dated 28th of March, from a lady in Dr. Hoge's party now traveling in Palestine, gives the following interesting account of an exciting episode: "We had an unfortunate affair th night before. Some one broke into Dr. Hoge's tent and carried off his trunk and travelling satchel containing all his valuables—his gold watch and opera glasses, a purse containing £40 in gold, besides much else. After a grefuss and much searching the trunk was found over on the hill, rifled of its con tents and his clothes all scattered around. We hardly hope that anything will be recovered, though the Gover nor here is making an effort and has arrested some parties. It was a most unfortunate beginning for us and our dragoman; but we think him innocent and have placed the guilt on our guards, who watched beside us whilst we slept. We hope nothing worse may occur."

Another letter written on the 4th of April, and received at the same time, stated that nothing had been recovered, but that the matter was in the hands of American Consul at Jerus the American Minister at Constantinople, who was present in Jerusalem at the time. Little hope is entertained, however, of recovering the lost articles. The party consists of Rev. Dr. Hoge Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Pemberton, Rev. Mr. Holcombe and wife, missionaries to India, and Miss Spaulding, of New They are all in excellent health and spirits, and were to have left for Damascus in a few days.

Escobedo and Grant. Gen. Escobedo, of Mexico, best known to American readers from his capture of the Emperor Maximilian at Queretaro, where, by the verdict of a coun-cil of war, he was shot to death, is now in New York, Gen. Escobedo is one of the five candidates for the presidency of Mexico He seems to have taken a lead out of Gen. Grant's book and come to this country to get out, it is said, of the entangling political webs that were being spun by Mexican politicians, and to avoid compromising himself through any affiliation with revolutionary propagandists. In the meantime his friends are holding him up, as in the case of Gen Grant, as the savior of his country. Here, however, end the close analogies between the two presidential aspirants. One great difference between them is the fact that while the friends of Gen Grant are zealously endeavoring to procure his nomination for third term, the friends of Gen Escobed have not to go through the formality of a nominating convention, but are putting him forward as entitled to the presidency because of his distinguished military services and tecause he has never yet held that office.

Freak of a Tree.

Here is the strangest tree yarn of all, from Moore county, North Carolina. It was an oak tree, and grew in a grave-yard. Every body said it was dead. All the limbs and twigs fell off, and only the trunk remained, for three or four years. Then a man's body was buried at the foot of the tree, which came to life, put out new limbs and boughs, grew higher and larger, and is now a fine, flourishing tree

TERRIBLE TORNADO.

GRAPHIC DESCRIPTION OF THE

A Former North Carolinian Loses His Wife and Twenty Thousand Bollars Worth of Property.

MARSHFIELD, Mo., April 28, 1880.

Editor Tarboro Southerner: Being an old resident of Tarboro and other places in Eastern North Carolina, and having received several letters of anxious inquiries as to our safety during the recent terrible cyclone that laid in waste our beautiful little city, I know of no means by which I can reach our friends than through your columns.

On Sunday afternoon (the 18th inst) our little city of fifteen hundred inhabitants were a happy and contented peo-ple, but in one moment's time the whole town, with the exception of fifteen or twenty houses, was swept out of existence. Whole families were killed. Many children were made or-phans, wives lost their husbands and husbands lost their wives. The heart-rending screams of mothers and children represented a scene that will never leave the memory of those who were present and witnessed the horrible

It is with a sad and broken heart that I attempt to write this letter. I myself suffered a loss that can never be effaced from memory. A happier family than mine on that eventful Sabbath after-noon never lived. Myself and wife, with our four little children, ranging in age from eighteen months to eight years of age, were all congregated in our bed-room, the children having retired for the night, when people—men, women and children—commenced running to our house, (it being of brick and therefore thought to be safe) and therefore thought to be safe) screaming with fright and before we had time to get our children dressed, our house was leveled to the ground and my poor wife was instantly killed. A better woman never lived. She was a native of Abingdon, Va, and has several relations living there. My father, F. W. Moore, who had just returned from his old home in North Carolina, had just time to reach our house and give the alarm before the cyclone struck There were several other North Carolinians living in our town; none were killed so far as I know, but several were dangerously wounded. Excuse me, Mr. Editor, for referring to personal matters, but my father was intimately acquainted in Tarboro and other sections in Eastern Carolina, and I know they will be anxious to hear from us, while to undertake to write to each one personally would be more than I could do under the present distressing cir-cumstances. There have been eightyfive deaths, so far, and over fifty, dan gerously hurt, are in the hespital, besides several others that have been removed to other towns. The cyclone, as it approached our town, seemed to be in the shape of a funnel, or rather like a cornucopia: very small at the point nearest the earth and large at the top. The main part of the cyclone did not seem to be larger than a good size house in width, but had wings that extended for nearly three hundred yards on each side. Where the main part of thes orm passed, there was no power on earth that could have withstood it. The bark was torn from the trees as if it had been carefully peeled off with knives. Solid brick blocks were crushed in as if you had been mashing dough in your

My father and myself owned more property than any one else in town, Some twenty thousand doilars worth was all swept from the face of the earth in one moment's time. My father and my four children were all hurt, the former badly.

I will give you one or two instances of the curious freaks of this storm and close. A stone weighing over two tons was left in the centre of a field and no one knows from whence it came. An infant child, whose mother was killed and father dangerously wounded, was blown two miles into the country and lodged in the top of a tree, 30 feet from the ground, where it remained for more than 24 hours before found. It was not much hurt and the reunion between father and child brought tears to hundreds of eyes.

of eyes. Very respectfully, W. J. MOORE.

A WAR STORY.

How Union Prisoners Proposed to Capture Michmond.

A new story of the war was recently told by Major John D. Simpson, who was engaged in it. He says: Desperate at long confinement, and with the de-termination of the American soldier, it was planned to escape from Libby Prison, release about lifteen thousand of our soldiers confined in Richmond, and on Belle Isle, capture the arsenal, hold the city, make Jeff Davis a prisoner cross James River, burn the bridges after us and escape down the peninsula.

This plan was perfectly feasible, ard would have been executed to the letter had it not been for a traitor in the prison, who communicated our plans to the Confederate, and the game was check mated,

About haif a block away from Libby Prison were confined in what was known as the Pemberton building seven or eight thousand of our enlist-ed men; on Belle Isle, an island in James River opposite Richmond, about the same number. In Libby Prison were about a thousand Union officers. Although there were in prison General Neal Dow of Naine, General Sammon, and several officers outranking Colonel A. D. Streight, Streight was acknowledged as the leader. He origi-nated the Secret Council of Five, and was chosen commander-in-chief. It was a sworn, secret organization, as its name indicates, in councils or circles of five men each, with a leader and each room had a commander. Quietly, night after night, the organization went on. Slipping, ghost-like in stocking feet, among the sleeping prisoners, the guides would lead those who were to be sworn into the wellremembered coroner, and as the fast as one circle was organized another would be formed, until one-half of the officers in the prison were members Every day a new countersign was given out, and the entire command held well in hand. As soon as a good majority of the officers had been sworn in, the break was to have been made. The bactalion guarding the prison was to be rusaed upon and captured, and a divi-sion of officers, detailed for the purpose, were to rush to where our officers were confined and liberate. As soon as the liberation from the prison took place, which was expected to be all over in fifteen minutes, and at the loss of but few killed, the prisoners were to rush to Capitol Square. It was the order of the Confederate authorities to ring the alarm bells whenever the home guard was needed, and at its sound the militia who had their arms home with them, were to rally to the public square. It was the intention of the Union prisoner to disarm these men as fast as they arrived and arm their own men with their guns. A force was to cut the tel-egraph wires, another was to seize the arsenal, another to capture Jeff Davis and the leaders of the Confederate, and then armed and organized, to march acros the river, burn the bridges after us, and escape, as I have said, down the peninsula. We would only have had about thirty miles to go to reach MARSHFIELD CYCLONE.

This plan was about perfected, all the details made, the different officers appointed, and there would have been picture. no doubt of success—but one night a battery of artilery and two regiments battery of artilery and two regiments of infantry were drawn up in front of Liboy Prison. The guns of the artillery were trained on the building and the men stood in line before the prison all night. For two or three nights this was repeated, until one morning the Richmond papers, containing full detail of the plot, were sent into prison and we saw that we had been betrayed. Our enlisted men were heartly sent to Andersonville, iron bars were put up at the windows of Libby, the guard was doubled, and greater v gilance w: s used in guarding us.

INHUMAN BRUTALITY.

COLORED MOTHER GIVES BIRTH TO A FULLY MATURED CHILD

he Beats its Brains out With a Light wood Knot While Playing in the field.

Tarboro Southerner. On Wednesday of last week, about 2 P. M, the community in the Swift Creek neighborhood, in this county, were greatly shocked by the inhuman brutality of a colored mother, whose name was Martha Bullock. She was plowing in a field owned by Jno F. Speight, when, according to the witness before the Coroner's Jury, she was seen to pause occasionally, lean over her plow for a short time, and then re.

stoop, and pick up something from the ground. She then, carrying this object, scaled the fence, enclosing the field, and repaired to an old swamp near by. The hands at work in the same field, especially a colored man plowing near her, heard a beating

This plowman and several of the hands at once, suspecting something wrong, followed in the direction of the noise. When they reached the spot they saw Martha rise and start toward they saw Martha rise and start toward them. Searching in the briars they dis-covered the newly-born child where she had thrown it. They sain to her, "Well you have got rid of that thing at last." She made no reply, but went back into the field and resumed her plowing, which she continued until

One of the hands, a colored woman, took the child and found its skull and

When approached on the subject, the brutal mother admitted it was her child, but said nothing about killing it, nor the subject of her inhuman conduct. the cause of her inhuman conduct, Martha is a single woman, very dark in complexion, about twenty-one years of age, and the child was a bastard.

The above facts were brought out be-

A Heathen Burial in New Jersey. New York World, April 29,

The body of Ah Sing, one of the colony of Chinese laundrymen at Belleville, was buried with peculiar ceremony last Monday. His fellow countryman had ordered a hearse, with particular instructions that it be decorated with the interest of the country in the country "chickee-fellee" (chicken feather) plumes. The hearse is an innovation at Chinese funerals. As the body was borne into the Chinese quarters, show money, consisting of brown paper bearing Chinese characters, was scattered. A tin pan with burning incense was placed at the head of the body in the hearse. The grave had been dug deeper than was considered proper, and it was partly filled with earth again In a hole at the fcot of the grave an earthen jar was put, and over this were thrown candies and nuts. When the hole had candies and nuts. When the hole had been filled up, a plate with meat and a chicken was placed over it. Near by were chop sticks, a bowl of rice and a bowl of tea. The grave was partially surrounded by burning tapers. Tea was poured over the grave, and the mourners, prostrating themselves, went away. The ceremony was witnessed by a large number of people.

LUCCA IN BERLIN.

The Frima Donna's Sway Over the People, and Stories of Her Experience in the German Capital. Cor Boston Advertiser, eral distinct worlds; each moves about its own sun and axis, and often has as little to do with its sister planats as Mercury with Venus. At present, one world of Berlin is satisfied and happy, the world of opera-goers, for her Lucca is back again. Lucca's artistic fame is Berlin's own child. It was here her reputation was made, and here she was for years an idolized prima donna. By and by came Frau Malinger, and wished a share of the admiration. A part was accorded her, and an unfriendly spirit of rivalry rose between the two singers. It was, however, a rich time for the opera. How could it be otherwise, for each light was trying to shine the brightest, that it might outshine its ival?

But, alas for Berlin, soon instead of two prima donnas she had none. The enmity came to an open outbreak on the stage, and both singers sent in their resignations. That of Frau Mallinger was accepted, but as they would not free Frau Lucea from her contract she simply ran away. There is a land named America; in the opinion of many Europeans a sort of barbarous country where one only goes to pick up money or to escape from one's past self, and thither fled Frau Lucca. After a time Frau Malinger returned to Berlin, and she has remained the prima donna at the opera house until now. Lucca comes only as guest, as star, and will sing but about five or six times; but how glad Berlin is to seer her! Yes. "Of course she will not sing as before," it says; "our Lucca has grown older since she left us."

What throngs there were on Unter den Linden on the day the tickets were to be sold! The price of them was nominally but little raised; but the recole to be sold! The price of them was nominally but little raised; but the people soon learned that they were not to be had at any price. The speculators were lords of the hour, and yet, very early in the day, they seemed only to exist, to shake their heads at the petitioners before them, "All sold long ago," was their invariable answer. They probably had had very few to sell in the beginning. The court has the first right here, and the court has numerous relahere, and the court has numerous relations. Lucea appeared first in "Car-men." Of course all the royal family men." Of course all the royal family were at the opera to greet her. The Princess Fredrich Karl considered the occasion so much of a festival that she had her gala carriage drawn out, and drove from her door in coach and four with liveried footmen and horses in finest trappings. Storms of applause greeted the old favorite on her appearance; some one called for "Yusch," and the orchestra played a fanfare, a triumphant flourish. The papers the next day declared that she never acted and never sang better. In short, "our Lucca had not grown old."

I believe few monarchs reign more

I believe few monarchs reign more absolutely than the singer in her short day. The crowds who sought tickets for Lucea's second evening were as eager as before, and yet when the time in which she was to have sung arrived the great opera-house was dark. No droschking no ceacher drove tells. rived the great opera-honse was dark. No droschkies, no coaches drove to the door; no stately and, alas, staring officers stood about the entrance to watch the ladies as they stepped from their caeriages. This is an every evening sight in Berlin, and the stillness and darkness were then and there most unwonted. It all meant simply that one little women was hoarse and Berlin and little women was hoarse and Berlin. unwonted. It all meant simply that one little woman was hoarse, and Berlin must wait until she was better. It is not just now easy to give Lucca her place. Those who say she is not equal to Patti or Nilsson, by the very verdict pay her a compliment. Who would think of declaring that Fraulein Lehmann, for instance, was not equal to Patti or Nilsson? In the opinion of many Lucca has the "divine spark" of genius: that wonderful something that genius: that wonderful something that cannot be acquired by the most un-wearied study or caught by the hottest pursuit. It may be that she has but a glimmer of it. Mallinger has more schule, tut all the schule in the world cannot move as even the faintest glim-mer of "the divine spark."

New Road to Huntington.

The friends of the Cincinnati, Ohio River and Virginia railroad, a line, on the north shore of the Ohio, between Cincinnati and Huntington, are perfecting measures for its early construc-tion. A meeting of leading citizens and capitalists was held in this city on Friday, and steps taken to inaugurate the movement, which contemplates rail connections with the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad and the coal field. The determination of the Chesapeake and Ohio interests to establish rail connection with Cincipnations at this nection with Cincinnati gives at this time new interest and additional value to this movement, which, while quiet, is forcible and effective. The possibility of our reighbors at Portsmouth and Ironton switching of on a project in the interest of the Scioto Valley, which would injure this connection by the establishment of a weak and unfriendly link in the line, precipitates action ear-lier than intended. The plan upon which the enterprise is being lauched and the connections insured leaves no reasonable doubt of success.

FLOATING THREE DAYS ON RAFT AT SEA.

The Suffering of the Only Known Survivor of the Crew of the Lizzie M. Merrill. New York World.

Captain George Beal, the only known survivor of the crew of the brig Lizzie M. Merrill, which foundered on Febof Cape Hatteras, has sent a statement to J. W. Elwall, the New York agent of the vessel. The brig belonged to T. J. Southard, of Richmond, Me., and was of 450 tons. She sailed hence on Jan-uary 31st for New Orleans with a crew of nine men. On February 6th Cap-tain Beal was taken off a raft on which he had been floating three days, the vessel having gone down with the crew. He was very much exhausted in mind and body, and it was several days before he could give an account of the wreck. When two days out a gale struck the vessel, which began to leak. The gale continued that night and the next day. About 9 o'clock in the morning, while all hands were at the pumps, a big sea came aboard, stove the deck and filled the vessel so that she sank in five minutes. Cap-tain Beal tried to launch the life-boat, but was carried down with the vessel before he succeeded. "I sank to a con siderable depth," the statement goes on, "and when I reached the surface again I saw the life-boat about twenty yards to the leeward of me, with the se-cond mate and one sailor in it, but they could not pull to me as they had lost the oars. I got on some pieces of wreck-age which had broken from the deck of the afterhouse. They were about eight feet long and two feet abroad. Or these I gradually drifted away from the life-boat. Had the mate and his only companion in the boat even a light billet of wood they could have turned their boat so as to reach me. At one time I formed the resolution to jump on the raft and swim to the boat, but the distapce was too great and and the sea was running. Towards night I threw up my hands every two or three minutes to encourage them, and they retured the signal. We must have been a mile apart then and the gap was widening. As night fell and they began to fade from my sight I felt that it was our last separation. I had a few crackers in

I was seized with intense thirst, and kept my hair, face, neck and chest well moistened. At daylight not an object was in sight, but the sea moderated. Ate two buscuits and had one left. At nightfall I fainted. I was aroused by a sharp pain in the left arm and found it was caught between the planks. At 2 o'clock on Friday afternoon, the 6th of February, a sail bore down on me. I was hardly able to signal it. At 6 o'clock a boat was put out and I was taken aboard the schooner Harold Haarfager, Cap-tain Kundsen, bound from Richmond, Va., to Rio Grand del Sul, after having been eighty-one hours floating on the

Three weeks later Captain Beal was transferred to the British bark Vigi-lant, Captain Sheppard, which took him to Queenstown. Nothing been heard of the two men in the life-The largest variety Misses Childrens

THE NEWS THAT IS CURRENT IN WASHINGTON.

Western North Carolina Attorney ship---Cameron Swears By His Red Hair---Adjournment Talk, Rtc. Correspondence Baltimore Sun.

WASHINGTON, D. C. May 5. The commission of Mr. Lusk, the present United States district attorney for the western district of North Carolina, will expire in a few weeks. As Mr. Lusk has been in office for eight years it is not considered probable that the President will rengainate him for another term. Quite a number of members of the North Carolina bar of that section of the State have been mentioned for the position, including George B. Everett, J. M. McCorkle, W. S. Ball and James E. Boyd. The latter-named gentleman is pressed by many influential politicians and eminent lawyers. Although a prominent Republican he enjoys the confidence of the leading Democrats of the State.

A gentleman from the South, who saw much of Gen. Grant and his party on the recent tour through that section, says Gen, Grant himself created a very favorable impression, but that Mr. Fred. Grant had a very bad case of the "big head," and did not commend himself to the affections or the good-will of any of those with whom he came in contact. As for Lieut.-Gen. Sheridan, he says he seemed to think that as long as Gen. Grant was eschewing liquid refreshments he must take the contract to do the drinking of the whole party. The gentleman, who is a very sagacious observer, and of long and varied political experience, says that while he does not think the Southern States would contribute at all to the election of Grant, he is quite satisfied that the most influential and respectable element throughout that entire section would infinitely prefer to see Grant once more in the White House than any other Republican. To-day, on the GRANT. any other Republican. To-day, on the floor of the Senate, an enthusiastic Blaine man said, in conversation with a leading Southern Senator, that Blaine was sweeping everything before him, and would certainly be nominated at Chicago. The Senator said: "You people had better not fool with Grant; no one hassever bucked against him who was not whipped."

SWEARS BY HIS RED HAIR.

SWEARS BY HIS RED HAIR.

Senator Don Cameron laughs at the idea of the Pennsylvania delegation to Chicago not casting a solid vote for Grant, and says that as sure as his hair is red Grant will be nominated on the first ballot. Wayne MacVeagh, Don Cameron's brother-in-law, who is now here, does not agree with the young Senator. He says there is no doubt that a very respectable minority of the Pennsylvania delegation will refuse to vote for Grant on the first or any other vote for Grant on the first or any other

There is a good deal of adjournment talk now a-days, and a general belief that Congress can get through by the first of June if it attends strictly to business. The appropriation commit-tee is a little slow. The President's veto of the little deficiency bill is laughed at by the Democrats. The items in the vetoed bill will be placed in the general deficiency bill, and the deputy marshals provided for as usual.

SAT RDAY, MAY 8, 1880. GEO. C JORDAN, Editor and Propr

Some dissatisfaction is being expressed at the manner in which admission tickets to the coming Chicago Convention are being distributed. It is charged that the committee having charge of the tickets intend to pack the hall with third terms, but then this charge may come only from those who have been disapointed in getting tickets.

ONE of the leading planks of the Liberal platform in England is a reduction of the expenses of the country. It is said that Gladstone, who has the reputation of being the leading financier of Europe, hopes to be able to reduce the interest charge of Great Britain by replacing the 3 per cent consols with a 24 per cent loan. Such a change would have an extraordinary effect on all the money markets of the world. It would certainly effect the United States advantageously by increasing the value of our bonds and bringing a large amount of British capital to this coun-

SAN FRANCISCO has shown an unexpected manhood on the impeachment of its mayor, the infamous Kallock. That manhood was wofully degraded when the young, energetic adventurous population of the great city of the Pacific coast, submitted itself to the dictation of a mob, and accepted as its ruler, a man spewed out even by the corruption of the olden East for an offence, intolerable to social decency. The civilized world would have par doned San Francisco if it had applied this curse to the new offenders.

WHEN the present Conservative government of Canada went into power a new tariff bill was framed greatly increasing the duties on all imports, and it was announced that the revenues of the Dominion would be greatly increased in consequence. The result, however, has been different from that predicted by the Conservative political economists, and a heavy deficit will occur this year. The Canadian government has been seeking for a remedy for some time, but can find no other than a large issue of paper money, with which the country will be flooded, in the hope that these greenbacks will abolish "the hard times" in Canada, and stop the flow of emigration to the United States.

THE bill introduced by Mr. Robbins at the last session of Congress on the subject of a tariff on sugars, has been adopted as his own and introduced by Gen. Gibson of Louisiana during the present session. That bill, and the speech of Mr. Robbins showed an amount of research and knowledge on a very abstruse mercantile point that astonished those who knew Mr. Robbins only as a lawyer, a politician or as a stump speaker. In the speech there is a profound knowledge of the subject discussed, remarkable in any one, strikingly so in the case of one who was supposed to have paid little attention to the question which is one generally assigned to the representatives of large commercial cities or great manufacturing interests. By far more light was thrown into the discussion of the speech and the investigation of Mr. Robbins than from any other source; and whatever favorable modifications may be made in the sugar tariff, may trace back their origin to his efforts.

THE British courts have decided that clubs have absolute power over their members whenever the proceedings are in accordance with the by-laws and the accused has been given a fair opportunity of explaining his conduct. If, after this, expulsion is decided on, the decision in final, and the courts will sustain it, except where the decision has been reached through fraud, personal hostility cr bias. The latest case that has been brought before the courts has been that of a Mr. Skipton, who was a member of the Hanover Square and the Naval and military clubs. He had invited a Mr. Canverdish to dine with him at the former club, where he plied him with wine and won from him at cards, at a single sitting, seven thousand pounds, ($35,-000.) The Hanover Club held that Skipton's conduct was indefensible, and expelled him. The matter was then brought before the Naval and Military Clubs, which, in like manner, voted for his expulsion. Against the act of the latter Skipton appealed to the law. The master of the rolls, before whom the case was tried, decided that the expulsion was warranted under the rules of the club, the complaina: t having first been heard in his own d fense, and dismissed the case.

It is much to be wished that county conventions would free themselves from the imputation upon them which have brought the system of conventions inte disfavor. It is very easy to obtain an expression of popular wishes by giving the people fair opporturity for utterance through the primaries. It is equally easy to suppress that express ion by practices familiar to old and wily politicians, and to peryert popular wish to entirely selfish or individual ends. This latter is the invitation and opportunity for "independence," almost the only danger that threatens Democratic a cendancy in the State. We are not sure that the practice deserves the severe re uke which it might receive through the success of independents or the return of radicals to power. The rights of the people and the purity of conventions ought serupulously to be protected and preserved The contemptable, yet dangerous, oligarchy which assumes to shape the action of conventions and speak in the name of the people, when they act with assumed authority and speak with the voice of falsehood, make themselves responsible for consequences for which they can make no atonement, for in the consequential reverses of their party they, too, are swept away, unless it may be a despicable few are saved by abandoning the wreck in time and finding refuge on the other side.

IT has all along been accepted as a tion; and notwithstanding that seemed at one time to be so much the wish and purpose of the Republicans rank and file, that they at least, regarded nomination and election as one and inseparable. A change has come over the scene. The faithful have become fainthearted or rebellious. There is not even a "solid South" for Grant, and Pennsylvania which was wont to lead off for him in solid columns shows unmistakable signs of kicking in the traces, and to say the least, gives a divided vote in the convention. As a consequence, Democrats in some quarters manifest uneasiness. Grant was the opponent they asked for. It did seem so easy to defeat him, even against the loyalty, the corruption, or even the violence of the office holders and old party leaders; because it was so easy to refresh the popular memory with reminiscencies of an eight years tenure of office, marked as no similar annals in American history with deeds and principles disgraceful as well as disastrous to Republican Institutions; and recalling the part to erect an impassable barrier to the farther march of ruin.

Failing to meet Grant in the fieldfear after all that not may be justified by events-these same Democrats apprehend a formidable, or rather invincible unity of the Republican party upon some other leader with fewer points of assault, or with greater claim upon popular confidence. It would be right hard to answer the question who of either that are named, Blaine or Sherman, is purer, better or more broadly available, except intellectnally, than Grant. Blaine is not clean, Sherman is not clean, and they are both extra sectional, a characteristic hateful to the South, and becoming equally repulsive to a better informed or more calculating North.

There is nothing to be apprehended if the Democrats are fortunate in their own choice of a candidate; and it seems scarcely possible that they should go astray unless they make a fatal error of taking up one who is sure to lose the State absolutely. New York will not g for Tilden. Therefore the Convention should not entertain his name for a moment. Safety lies with either Seymour or Bayard, perhaps with Field; and perhaps also with some name not yet on the surface. But with either of those named, the Democrats need feel no uneasiness even if Grant shall be laid on the shelf, of which there is now a happy probability.

Thrilling Scene in a Theatre.

A remarkable scene occurred at a reading given at Louisville on Wednesday evening by Mary Scott-Siddons. The first part of the programme had just been concluded, the last feature of which was the rendition of "The Maniac." Mrs. Siddons appeared in costume. and the audience was much moved by by her dramatic display. Suddenly a young woman, pushing past the door keeper, randown the main aisle, leaped upon the stage and, and rushing to Mrs Siddons, attacked her savagely. The woman had a dog in her arms and colored man followed her. Persons interfered and prevented any injury to Mrs, Siddons, who explained that the young woman was ademented person who had escaped from her custodian. Great excitement was produced in the audience by the occurrence.

GENTLEMEN,-I have had Liver Compla nt GENTLEMEN,—I have had Liver Compla nt and Dyspepsia, with running sores on the side of my neck, for on years. Doctors did no good. I have been spending for eight years and it did me no good. Everything I ate distressed me. I got reduced from 179 to 132 pounds. At last I tried the Resolvy SNT and it helped me right off, and on one pottle I gained five and one-half pounds. It is doing the business, and I am going for itstrong.

Peace Institute.

The Exhibition of the Kinder-garten Department at the Peace Institute last night was a most complete and agree-able success and the select audience gave every evidence that they could of their high appreciatson of the entertainment. The great precision and almost faultless acuracy of the little ones in their department reflect the greatest credit on Miss Stevenson, who has it under her special care. We would be glad to give the names of the little ones who so well acted their part, but we cannot to-night.

The Funeral Yesterday.

Yesterday evening at 3.30 p.m. the last sad tribu'e of respect which man can pay to his fellow man was consum mated in consigning to the grave the bodies of John D McMillan and Beau-regard Crocker, whose untimely death

we have heretofore chronicled.
The ceremonies were conducted at the First Baptist Church by Rev. Drs. Skinner, Watkins and Atkinson. After the services at the Church the procession moved off, headed by the Hickman Lodge of Good Templars, of which organization both the young men had been influential and respected mem-

The funeral services of both were performed at the same time and place, and side by side as they died, were they laid in the silent tomb.

The pall bearers of the occcasion were W. M. Brockwell, T. F. Cram, K. Kreth, Brown Pegram, Chas. Jordan, Henry Habel, H. H. Roberts, Howard Heartt, A. Kreth, James Woodward, Theo. Smythe and Wm. Smethurst.

At the grave the burial services of the Order of Good Templars was conducted by Grand Worthy Secretary Ballard, assisted by N. B. Broughton, Esq., the Lodge forming the circle of unity around the grave.

A sadder occasion the people of this community was never cailed upon to witness, and it has left an impression upon the sympathies of all, which will take many long months to efface.

A fitting tribute to these heroic mar-tyrs should be erected by the citizens of Raleigh over their remains to mark their resting place. We doubt not but that every citizen desires to contribute his mite to do so, not as an act of charity, but because it should be a community tribute which is justly due the memory of the departed.

The Baptist Pic-nic,

A grand pic-nic is expected to take place at Wake Forest College Sat-urday May 22nd, under the auspices of this county.

Arrangements have been made to run five extra trains from Raleigh to the Colleges as follows: No. 1 Leave Raleigh (Old Depot) 71 A.M. 1 P.M.

No. 1 Leaves College for Raleigh, 9 A.M. 4 P.M. Fare, for all connected with the Sunday schools invited, and the parents of the scholars of these schools, round trip 10 cents. Officers of the schools will provide tickets for their respective schools. Tickets can be had at the train. Each school will provide for its own needs, as this is to be emphatically a Basket Pic-nic.

There will be an interesting order of exercises and every school is specially invited to be present or be represented. Round trip tickets from Raleigh to the College for those not connected with College for those not connected with the schools, 50 cents. This will be the largest Baptist Pic-Nic that was ever held in the State. Let all come and seek to add interest to the occasion, and give new inspiration to the Sunday school cause.
